Vegetable Spacing Guide

This quick guide helps gardeners and growers set row and plant spacing for common vegetables. Use it as a reference sheet and write in the spacing that works for your site.

Farm / unit: _____ Date: _____ By: _____

1. Check the seed packet for spacing
2. Note the crop and variety
3. Choose bed or row layout
4. Mark in-row spacing
5. Mark between-row spacing
6. Allow room for equipment or paths
7. Adjust for soil fertility and irrigation
8. Record results at harvest

YOUR NOTES

TIP Spacing advice varies by variety and method, so follow the seed packet and your extension office, then record what worked.
